Press Release

Call for submissions for the annual online horror movie making contest Ten Scary Minutes.

Submissions accepted from August 1st to October 1st with the winner announced October 31st.

Calgary, Alberta May 17, 2017: Tens Scary Minutes, the online horror movie making contest will be accepting submissions for the annual contest. Submissions will be accepted through the website: www.tenscaryminutes.com between August 1st and October 1st with the judging between October 2nd and October 30th. The winner will be announced October 31st or shortly thereafter.

Ten Scary Minutes is an online movie production contest open to the general public. The challenge is to create a ten (10) minute or less horror movie using smart phones, action cameras or any non- professional video camera. The purpose of the contest is to promote digital story telling by creating an entry level challenge using a very popular movie genre and providing a show case for the participants. The contest was started in 2013 and through its website www.tenscaryminutes.com, they present an archive of past entries.
